

THE ERICKSON SCHOOL OF AGING STUDIES

Aging, Finances, Business: A History and Future of Financial Gerontology in 10 Objects

When:

Friday, October 25, 2024, 1 - 2:30 p.m. EDT
(onsite reception to follow)

What:

The Inaugural Lecture of the Institute of Financial Gerontology at UMBC's Erickson School of Aging Studies.

Who:

Speaker: John Migliaccio, Ph.D., RFG, FGSA
Faculty, Asset-Based Community Development
Institute, DePaul University
President, Maturity Mark Services Co., LLC
Founding President, American Institute of Financial Gerontology

Discussant: Kenn Tacchino, JD, LLM
Joseph E. Boettner/Davis W. Gregg Chair of Financial Planning
Director, Financial Planning Programs, Widener
University
Editor, Journal of Financial Service Professionals

Why:

Envision the dynamic interplay between Time and Money within academia and practice, fostering Financial Gerontology. Established over 30 years ago, it integrates demographic shifts with financial management, addressing the needs of the aging population. This discipline merges academic research and practical applications, shaping the Longevity Economy.

Learn more about this vital discipline from John Migliaccio, an award-winning business executive, consultant, speaker, and educator with international research, analytics, and marketing experience in the baby boomer and senior markets. He is the author of numerous articles, book chapters, and marketing guides on the older adult population, and is a long-time columnist on Financial Gerontology in the Journal of Financial Service Professionals.

Where:

UMBC Campus, Univ. Center Rm. 312 and via Zoom

Financial Gerontology Lecture

The Inaugural Lecture of the Institute of Financial Gerontology: Aging, Finances, Business: A History and Future of Financial Gerontology in 10 Objects

Register

Free

Share This Email

Share This Email

Share This Email

Erickson School of Aging Studies | 5523 Research Park Drive Suite 230 | Baltimore, MD
21228 US

Unsubscribe | Update Profile | Constant Contact Data Notice

Try email marketing for free today!